UNSOC TALK

A Yale of a Time

A Message from the Conference manager

Written by Derick

Security Council Simulation at Yale (SCSY) is the first conference that UNSOC attends. While the conference name may sound daunting, SCSY is actually suitable for any and all delegates intending to participate in crisis committees. Organized in New Haven, Connecticut, SCSY offers something for everyone, even those who are not avid MUN-ers, as the scenery is stunning. Go to <http://scsytech.wix.com/scsy> to find out more. [Price Estimate - TBD]

QMUNi 2015

Queen's Model United Nations Invitational (QMUNi) should appeal to delegates of all experience levels, from veterans to novices. We're planning to bring a large team to Kingston, so come and compete at this year's first conference on the Canadian circuit! Check out the exciting committees they have planned here: <http://www.queensmuni.org/committees/>. [Price Estimate - $200]

Motion to get excited, delegates! Further information on these conferences will be presented at the Open House. If you have any questions feel free to contact Venessa and Stanley at conferences.utunsoc@gmail.com.

As an executive, we're all extremely excited for our fall activities, and we're looking forward to another brilliant year of community activities and exciting conferences!

We hope you have a wonderful week! See you all soon!

All the best,

The UNSOC Executive Team
